

SOFTWARE END USER LICENCE AGREEMENT

"INFORMATIQUE GRAPHISME
ENERGETIQUE - I.G.E."
(hereinafter the "Company")

Before proceeding with any download and/or installation of the Software (as this term is defined below), we ask you to carefully read this agreement (hereinafter the "End User Licence Agreement") which sets out the general terms and conditions under which a licence to use the Software is granted to the Licensee (hereinafter the "Licence").

This End User Licence Agreement shall be deemed to constitute a contract between the Editor (such as defined below) and the Licensee. It refers to the Software delivered, regardless of the method of delivery, its Documentation, updates and/or modules as well as the hardware media on which the Software is delivered, unless other provisions provided by the Editor or Distributor relating to the Software, its Documentation, updates and/or modules specifically take precedence over the provisions of this End User Licence Agreement.

This End User Licence Agreement is entered into and becomes effective upon the occurrence of one of the following events: (i) the "Accept" button in the dialogue box presenting this End User Licence Agreement and/or the Licence is clicked, and/or (ii) the Software is downloaded and/or installed, and/or (iii) the Licensee accepts a separate agreement the subject matter of which includes the granting of the Licence pursuant to this End User Licence Agreement.

If a system integrator, sub-contractor, consultant or any other legal or natural person acting on behalf of the Licensee carries out any of the actions indicated in para. (i) or (ii) above, the Licensee shall be deemed to have accepted all the provisions of this End User Licence Agreement as if the Licensee had carried out the relevant action itself. It is the responsibility of the Licensee to ensure that any person performing any of the actions indicated in paragraph (i) or (ii) above, is entitled to do so or has the legal authority to bind the Licensee and confirm its acceptance of the provisions of this End User Licence Agreement.

Except as specifically provided for with respect to Updates and New Versions, any reference to the Software in this End User Licence Agreement shall be deemed to include a reference to the Updates and New Versions of the relevant Software.

DEFINITIONS

Affiliates: refers to (i) any company that the party concerned to this End User Licence Agreement controls directly or indirectly, or (ii) any company controlling the said party, or (iii) any company controlled by the company that controls the said party, the term 'control' having the meaning given to it in Article L.233-3 of the French Commercial Code.

Bug: refers to a Software malfunction that can be reproduced.

Delivery Note (sometimes also referred to as a 'Acknowledgement of Receipt'): refers to the document provided to the Licensee certifying correct delivery of the Software to the Licensee.

Source Code: a set of instructions written in a computer programming language used to obtain an executable program.

Cyber threat: refers to any circumstance or event that may adversely impact, compromise, damage or disrupt the Licensee's Systems (as defined below) or that may result in access to, acquisition, loss, misuse, unauthorised destruction, disclosure and/or modification of the Licensee's systems, including all data, including through malware, hacking or similar attacks.

Distributor: refers to the Company whenever it directly licenses the Software or any other legal entity to which the Company has granted the right to license the Software.

Documentation: refers to the manual and any other medium, in any format whatsoever, which describes the Software's features and the procedures or instructions relating to its installation and/or use, such as made available to the Customer according to the terms set out in the Offer. Any translation of the Documentation into a language other than that in which it is provided by the Company shall result in a quote subject to the Customer's agreement.

Intellectual Property Rights: refers to all rights, of any kind whatsoever, existing under any law, regulation, ordinance, treaty, convention, or other basis, including but not limited to all rights relating to patents, utility models, all moral rights, copyrights and related rights, rights relating to trademarks and trade presentations, rights relating to integrated circuit topographies, domain names, models, software, databases, confidential information (including, but not limited to, all rights relating to know-how and business secrets), and all other intellectual property rights, whether registered or not, including, but not limited to, the corresponding applications and renewals, as well as all rights and forms of protection of equivalent or similar effect, recognised by the laws of each country or territory, worldwide.

Editor: refers to, depending on the Software covered by the Licence, (i) INFORMATIQUE GRAPHISME ENERGETIQUE - "I.G.E", a company under French law, registered with the Toulouse Trade and Companies Register under the number 399 737 006, also referred to as the "Company", for the Software for which it is the holder of the intellectual property rights pertaining thereto, or (ii) the third party holder of the intellectual property rights pertaining to the Software (hereinafter the "Author") for which the Company has received operating rights, including the right to grant any Customer Licences to use the Software under the terms and conditions set down in this End User Licence Agreement.

Licence: refers to the right to install and use the Software, granted by the Vendor to the Licensee under the terms of this End User Licence Agreement.

Licensee: refers to the legal entity that has the right to install and use the Software pursuant to this End User Licence Agreement and within the scope of the Licence referred to in the Delivery Note and/or the special contractual conditions applicable between said legal entity and the Distributor.

Update (or Minor Release): refers to a partial or full release of the Software including either Bug fixes or minor feature enhancements. Each Minor Release is identified by specific numbering.

New Version (or Major Release): refers to a full release of the Software incorporating new features developed by the Editor. Each Major Release is identified by specific numbering.

Software: refers to a standard software or set of standard software developed by the Vendor and which includes its Protection System and Documentation. The Software, indicated on the Delivery Note, is made available to the Customer in the form of object code, either by sending physical media to be installed, or by sending a user code after the Customer has downloaded the Software. Third party vendor software and corresponding user manuals and documentation are governed by the third-party vendor's licencing provisions and are excluded from this definition of the Software.

Sites: refers to the address(es) provided by the Licensee as being the location(s) where the Software is to be used under the Licence.

Protection System: refers to any means, in physical or dematerialised form, such as a code or key, aimed at protecting the integrity of the source code of the Software, its Updates and New Versions.

End User: any natural person who is part of the Licensee's workforce or contractually authorised by the Licensee to use the Software and who has followed the training approved and required for this purpose by the Editor. The number of End Users authorised under the Licence is specified on the Delivery Note and/or in the special contractual conditions applicable between the Licensee and the Distributor. The Licensee shall vouch for compliance with the conditions of the Licence by any End User to whom the Licensee grants the right to use the Software.

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY AND USE RIGHTS

Intellectual property rights

The Software as well as any technology and know-how integrated or implemented by the Software, whether or not protected by patents, as well as all Intellectual Property Rights relating to the Software, including but not limited to copyrights, remain the exclusive property of the Editor or, if applicable, the Author depending on the Software concerned by the Licence.

Nothing in this End User Licence Agreement shall be construed as transferring, or giving the Licensee any right to, ownership of the Software and the Intellectual Property Rights relating thereto.

The Editor reserves all rights not specifically granted to the Licensee in this End User Licence Agreement.

The Editor is not selling the Software to the Licensee. Under this End User Licence Agreement the Editor only grants a Licence to the Licensee.

In the event that the Licensee becomes aware of an infringement of the Editor's or the Author's property rights to the Software, the Licensee must immediately notify the Editor and provide it with all the information necessary to defend its interests and those of the Author.

Any trademark contained in or affixed to the Software, its Documentation and, where applicable, the hardware media supplied with the Software, is a trademark belonging to the Editor or its Affiliates. Except as specifically provided for by applicable law, the Licensee is not authorised to remove or alter any trademarks, trade names, product names, logos, copyright or proprietary notices, legends, symbols or labels contained in or affixed to the Software, its Documentation or any hardware media supplied with the Software.

Under no circumstances shall this End User Licence Agreement authorise the Licensee to use the name or trademark of the Editor or Distributor.

Rights granted under the Licence

Subject to the Licensee's acceptance of the terms and conditions of this End User Licence Agreement and full payment by the Licensee of the price of the Licence due to the Distributor, the Editor grants the Licensee a non-exclusive, non-assignable and non-transferable right to use the Software for the Licensee's own use, without the right to grant sublicenses or the right to market the Software or make it available in any way to any third party.

The Licence may be granted for an unlimited or limited period according to the special contractual conditions applicable between the Licensee and the Distributor.

Unless otherwise provided for in the special contractual conditions applicable between the Licensee and the Distributor, the scope of the Licence granted to the Licensee shall be specified in the Delivery Note, in particular the Software Protection System, the number of End Users authorised under the Licence, the Site(s) on which the Software may be used under the Licence, the limited or unlimited term of the Licence, and where appropriate, the end date of the Licence and its method of renewal. Any modification to the scope of the Licence shall be subject to the prior and specific agreement of the Distributor and the Editor when the Distributor is not the Editor.

No rights of any kind whatsoever relating to the Software are granted to the Licensee by the Editor if these rights are not set down in the Delivery Note or in the special contractual conditions applicable between the Licensee and the Distributor.

The Licensee shall use the Software in accordance with all applicable laws and regulations in the jurisdictions where Licensee installs or downloads and uses the Software, including but not limited to applicable Intellectual Property Rights regulations.

The Licence may be terminated under the conditions set out in the "Termination" article of this End User Licence Agreement.

The Licence excludes any maintenance or other additional services. The Licence is granted by the Distributor either independently of the maintenance services, which may be the subject of a separate maintenance contract, or within a subscription contract that also includes the maintenance services.

Free licences

If the Software is provided to the Licensee with a Free Licence, in particular for testing or evaluation purposes, the Licensee is not authorised to use the Software for a purpose or period other than those for which the said Licence was granted to it and the Licensee must also comply with all the provisions of this End User Licence Agreement.

Software backup copy

The Licensee has the right to make a single backup copy of the Software to ensure continuation of use by the Licensee in compliance with the End User Licence Agreement. The backup copy of the Software is subject to the terms and conditions of this End User Licence Agreement and all notices relating to the Editor's Intellectual Property Rights appearing in or on the Software originally provided shall be reproduced on this copy. Any other copying is strictly prohibited.

Copies of the Documentation

If the Software is provided to the Licensee with Documentation in electronic or online format, the Licensee may print a copy for each Software Licence acquired. If the Software contains Documentation in paper form, the Licensee may create a copy for each Software Licence acquired.

Limitations on the use of the Software

The Licensee shall refrain from any use of the Software that is prohibited by law or not specifically provided for in this End User Licence Agreement, or from doing or allowing any third party to do so, and in particular shall refrain from:

- assigning, sublicensing, lending or renting out the Software.
- correcting or having a third party correct, any errors or malfunctions in the Software or its Documentation without the prior consent of the Editor,
- using the Software and/or its Documentation outside the scope of the Licence as referred to in the Delivery Note and/or in the special contractual conditions applicable between the Licensee and the Distributor,

- providing or making the Software and/or its Documentation available, free of charge or for a fee, by any means whatsoever and in particular over its internal network or over the Internet, to any person whomsoever, with the sole exception of the right to access and use the Software granted solely to those End Users authorised under the Licence and according to the terms and conditions set down in the Licence,
- reproducing, translating, adapting, decoding, decompiling (with the sole exception being the authorisation to decompile the software for interoperability purposes subject to compliance with the provisions of French law authorising such an operation), disassembling or attempting to access the Source Code of the Software or reconstituting, modifying or merging the Source Code of the Software, or creating other works from the Software,
- modifying the registration number of the Licence and/or the Software or replacing those imposed by the Editor with new passwords not authorised by the Editor when installing or using the Software,
- transferring the Software to a site or environment other than that for which the Licence was granted,
- selling, renting, licensing or transferring a copy of the Software or its Documentation in any way.

The Editor reserves the right to carry out an inspection, or have a third party carry out an inspection, on the Licensee's premises during normal working hours, without having to give prior notice, in order to ensure that the Software is being properly used. If, during these checks, the Editor discovers that the Software has been used contrary to the Licence and/or this End User Licence Agreement, and notwithstanding the Editor's right to terminate this Licence with the Licensee being deemed to be at fault and to claim damages, the Licensee undertakes to cease such unauthorised use immediately upon receipt of a written notice from the Editor; it shall then comply with all instructions provided by the Editor, including the immediate purchase from the Distributor of additional Licences so that the number of Licences purchased corresponds to the number of Licences used by the Licensee.

Any use of the Software other than that specifically authorised under the Licence and this End User Licence Agreement is strictly prohibited.

Lists, catalogues and manufacturer data

The Software may contain or provide access to symbols, components, standard plans, lists or catalogues of electrical equipment issued by third parties.

These data are provided to the Licensee as is, without any guarantee as to the quality of said data or how accurate, complete and up to date they are.

The Licensee is solely responsible for using or not using lists, catalogues and/or data from third parties and data contained or accessible in the Software. The Editor waives any direct or indirect liability related to the use or non-use by the Licensee of said lists, catalogues and/or data provided by third parties.

Future Software Releases

The Licensee may not claim any right to receive a Licence for future releases of the Software. Updates and New Versions, if any, may be obtained by the Licensee from the Distributor in accordance with the contractual conditions relating to maintenance services applicable between the Licensee and the Distributor.

DELIVERY CONDITIONS AND FINANCIAL TERMS

The Software delivery conditions and associated financial terms are set down in the Distributor's general terms and conditions of sale.

EXPORT CONTROLS

The Software, Documentation, the hardware media supplied with the Software, the services, information and all other deliverables provided by the Editor or the Distributor under the Licence or in ancillary manner to the Licence and/or pursuant to this End User Licence Agreement, contain or are likely to contain components and/or technologies originating in the United States of America (USA), France, other member states of the European Union (EU) and/or other countries.

The Licensee acknowledges and accepts that the Software, Documentation, the hardware media provided with the Software, the services, information and any other deliverables and/or integrated technology, hereinafter collectively referred to as the "Deliverables", as well as the transfer and/or use of said Deliverables under the Licence or the agreement by which the Licence is provided, must be fully compliant with French and US laws and/or regulations and European and other applicable national and international export control laws and/or regulations.

Unless the applicable export licences have been obtained from the competent authority and subject to the approval of the Distributor, the Deliverables shall not (i) be resold, re-delivered, exported and/or re-exported to any destination or to any party (including but not limited to any person, group and/or legal entity) subject to restrictions under applicable export control laws and/or regulations; nor (ii) be used for the purposes and in the areas covered by restrictions under applicable export control laws and/or regulations. The Licensee also agrees that the Deliverables may not be used directly or indirectly in rocket systems or unmanned aerial vehicles, or in vectors for nuclear weapons, and shall not under any circumstances be used in the design, development, manufacture, or use of any form of weapon including, in particular, chemical, biological or nuclear weapons.

If the required or recommended licences, authorisations or approvals are not obtained, whether due to the inaction of a competent governmental authority or otherwise, or if such licence, authorisation or approval is refused or revoked, or if applicable export control laws and/or regulations are likely to prevent the Distributor from performing the Licence or agreement under which the Software is provided, or are likely to incur, in the Distributor's opinion, its liability under applicable export control laws and regulations were the Distributor to perform the Licence and/or said agreement, the Distributor shall then be exempt from any obligation arising out of the Licence and/or said agreement.

GUARANTEE

The Software Package is licensed 'as is'. The Editor does not guarantee that the Software is free from any errors or Bugs or that it will operate uninterrupted.

The Software is deemed to comply with the Documentation provided on the date of receipt of the Delivery Note by the Licensee.

The Licensee shall take on all risks with respect of the use or non-use of the Software.

While the Editor strives to keep the Software free of viruses or other sources of contamination, such as those due to the risks inherent in telecommunication networks and the internet, the Distributor cannot guarantee that the Software shall be free from vulnerabilities or Cyber threats or be protected against all viruses or other sources of contamination that may threaten the security or integrity of the Software and the data processed by the Software.

The Editor shall not grant the Licensee any specified or implied guarantee or conditions other than those specifically set down in this End User Licence Agreement.

LIABILITY

The Editor undertakes to perform its contractual obligations under this End User Licence Agreement with the utmost diligence in line with trade practices. The Editor's liability is limited to the Software operating in accordance with the Documentation provided on the date of receipt of the Delivery Note by the Licensee. The Licensee shall be unable to use the Editor's professional capacity as a reason to evade its own responsibilities arising from its obligations under this End User Licence Agreement. It shall be solely responsible for using and managing the Software and for controlling the way it is operated, making provision for data security and backup procedures in the event of a failure or malfunction of the Software. According to the contractual conditions relating to maintenance services applicable between the Licensee and the Distributor, the Licensee is responsible for acquiring from the Distributor all Updates and/or New Versions necessary for the proper functioning of the Software.

The Software shall be used by the Licensee in accordance with the technical instructions and recommendations for use provided by the Editor or included with the Software. Failing this, the Editor shall be immediately, and without any other condition, released from any liability for loss of any kind arising out of non-compliant use of the Software by the Licensee or any person acting on its behalf.

The liability of the Editor in the event of damages or losses arising out of a failure by it to meet its obligations under this User Licence Agreement shall be limited, at the Editor's discretion, to the repair or replacement of the Software or the reimbursement of the sums paid by the Licensee in consideration of the Software Licence, within the limits set out in this End User Licence Agreement.

In any event, and subject to any statutory provisions to the contrary, the Editor's liability shall not exceed fifty per cent (50%) of the sums paid by the Licensee over the previous twelve (12) months prior in consideration of the Software Licence.

Furthermore, the Editor shall not be liable to the Licensee in the event of any indirect and/or consequential loss, such as the loss or deterioration of information, programmes, files or databases, loss of earnings, commercial or financial loss, an increase in overheads or the consequences of proceedings initiated by a third-party, resulting from the use or failure to use the Software or the corresponding Licence by the Licensee or the provisions of this End User Licence Agreement, notwithstanding the foreseeable nature of such losses.

Any legal proceedings taken against the Editor under this End User Licence Agreement or in connection with the Software or the corresponding Licence shall be time-barred one year after the event giving rise to this action.

The Licensee shall take out all insurance required to compensate for the consequences of theft or destruction of the Software and/or of the associated documentation. In the event of loss or theft of the Software, and subject to the scope of the Licence and the contractual terms and conditions pertaining to the maintenance services applicable between the Licensee and the Editor, the Licensee wishing to continue using the Software may be required to acquire a new Software Licence at the Distributor's rate in force on the day of the loss or theft.

TERM

The Licence shall take effect on the date the Licensee accepts the terms and conditions of this End User Licence Agreement, subject to full payment by the Licensee of the Licence price indicated on the Distributor's invoice.

The Licence shall remain valid until its expiry in accordance with the following terms and conditions:

- (i) in the event that the Licence has been granted to the Licensee for an unlimited period, the Licence shall end on the end date of the copyright period, or the period of any other Intellectual Property Right applicable to the Software. The Editor may only grant the Licence for the period during which the Software is protected by the Intellectual Property Rights relating thereto;
- (ii) in the event that the Licence has been granted to the Licensee for a limited period, the Licence will end on the date on which this limited period ends, or
- (iii) if the Licence has been granted to the Licensee for a trial period, the Licence will end on the date on which this trial period ends if the Licensee has not subscribed to a limited or unlimited licence at the end of said trial period.

TERMINATION

Termination at the initiative of the Licensee

The Licensee may terminate a Licence subscribed to for an unlimited period at any time and automatically by sending a registered letter to the Editor with thirty (30) calendar days' notice. Early termination by the Licensee of an Unlimited Licence shall not entitle the Licensee to reimbursement of any amount whatsoever paid by the Licensee to the Editor or Distributor.

The Licensee does not have the right to terminate a limited-term licence early.

The foregoing provisions shall apply without prejudice to the Licensee's right to terminate the Licence in the case described in the Section "Miscellaneous provisions – Modification of the applicable conditions" of this End User Licence Agreement and according to the terms and conditions set out in said Section.

Termination for Breach of the Agreement

The Licence, whether for a limited or unlimited period, may be terminated early by the Editor in the case of failure by the Licensee to comply with any of the provisions of this End User Licence Agreement. Termination of the Licence by the Editor shall take effect automatically, without any formalities being required, and shall be effective fifteen (15) calendar days after receipt by the Licensee of a formal notice to comply sent with acknowledgement of receipt and which has gone unheeded. This early termination shall not entail any obligation to refund the sums paid by the Licensee to the Editor or Distributor.

Consequences of termination

As soon as termination of the Licence becomes effective the Licensee loses the benefit of the rights attached to the Licence, regardless of the reason for said termination. The Editor may take any technical measures it chooses to disable the Licence or put an end, in any other way, to the ability of the Licensee to access and use the Software.

As soon as the Licence is terminated, regardless of the reason, the Licensee undertakes to immediately cease using the Software and to take the following actions:

- (i) if the Software has been provided to the Licensee in physical form, the Licensee must return the Software and its Documentation to the Editor, or to the Distributor at the Editor's request, without retaining any copies thereof;

(ii) if the Software has been provided to the Licensee by download, the Licensee shall delete the Software, its Documentation and any copies of these, along with any related files and documents, from its computers, hard drives, servers and devices containing them and from any other parts of the Licensee's Environment.

(iii) In all cases, the Licensee must, at the Editor's request, provide it with a written certificate certifying that the Licensee has carried out the required actions as described above.

EXCLUSION

Nothing in the Licence or this End User Licence Agreement shall be construed as:

- guaranteeing that the rights granted to the Licensee under the Licence have a perpetual validity period, whether under trademark law or other Intellectual Property Rights relating to the Software;
- guaranteeing to the Licensee that the Software will not be the subject of any infringement or unfair competition action taken by a third party concerning a patent, trademark, trade secret, copyright or any other Intellectual Property Right.
- implying an obligation for the Editor to file a patent application and/or any other Intellectual Property Right relating to the Software and/or to take infringement actions against third parties with respect to the Intellectual Property Rights of which the Editor is the owner or holder;
- implying an obligation for the Editor to provide improvements to the Software for the Licensee;
- guaranteeing to the Licensee that the Software Licence can be used by any Affiliate or branch of the Licensee; or
- guaranteeing that the Software is suitable or sufficient for the Licensee's needs or for the purposes for which the Licensee uses the Software.

FORCE MAJEURE – UNFORESEEABILITY

The Editor shall not be held liable for failure to meet one of its contractual obligations due to the occurrence of a force majeure event. In addition to those cases which are typically considered by French law to be cases of force majeure, strikes that are total or partial, within or outside the company, storms, earthquakes or other natural disasters, fires, floods, epidemics and the blockage of means of transport or supply or communication, shall specifically be deemed to be cases of force majeure. The occurrence of a force majeure event may in no case be claimed by the Licensee as grounds for suspending its obligations. If, as a result of a force majeure event, the Editor suspends its contractual obligations for a period in excess of three (3) months, then the Agreement shall be automatically terminated, unless otherwise agreed by the Parties, with neither party being responsible therefor.

The Editor may request that price conditions for the Licence be renegotiated or may automatically terminate the Licence if unforeseeable difficulties arise during the performance of the Agreement requiring that the Editor mobilise resources that are out of all proportion to the price paid for the Licence.

NON-DISCLOSURE

The technology and know-how embedded in the Software, the Documentation, the hardware media provided with the Software, the services, the information and any other deliverable and/or technology embedded therein, as well as all Industrial and Intellectual Property Rights relating thereto, must be considered by the Licensee as strictly confidential.

Consequently, the Licensee shall refrain from disclosing them to any third party whatsoever.

This non-disclosure obligation shall apply for the entire Software Licence validity period and for a further period of five (5) years after the Licence expires.

PROCESSING PERSONAL DATA

The Licensee is informed that personal data concerning it shall be collected and processed by the Editor in accordance with legal provisions and Regulation (EU) 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 27 April 2016 (General Data Protection Regulation). In the course of performing the Licence or the separate agreement the subject matter of which includes the granting of the Licence pursuant to this End User Licence Agreement, the Company (in its own name or in the name and on behalf of the Author) or the Licensee may be required to process business contacts and appropriate information relating to employees or representatives of one or other of the Parties. In so doing, the Company or the Licensee, in their capacities as data controllers, must comply with applicable laws and regulations relating to the protection of personal data, including the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR).

When the Company is a data controller, the following provisions apply:

Identity and contact details of the data controller:

INFORMATIQUE GRAPHISME
ENERGETIQUE – "I.G.E."
Address: 16 Boulevard Déodat de Séverac –
31770 Colomiers – France
Phone: 00 33 5 62 74 36 36
Represented by its legal representative.

Contact details of the DPO of the Schneider Electric Group, the group to which the Company belongs:

Email: DPO@schneider-electric.com
Address: Schneider Electric
DPO – 35 rue Joseph Monnier – CS 30323
92506 Rueil Malmaison – France

Purpose of processing

The processing of personal data will be carried out to enable the Company to provide the Software and perform its obligations under the Licence and this End User Licence Agreement.

Legal basis for processing

Personal data are collected by the Company for the purposes of the Licence.

Categories of personal data processed

The personal data that may be collected and processed by the Company are the following: surname and first name, email address, telephone and fax numbers of the End Users authorised to use the Software under the Licence and of the Licensee's employees in the performing the Licensee's rights and obligations under this End User Licence Agreement.

Category of personal data recipients

The following categories of persons in the Company's organization may be recipients of all or some of the Licensee's personal data collected: sales and customer relations department (sales administration), technical support department, accounting and debt collection department.

Data transfers outside the European Union

The Company shall inform the Licensee were it to transfer the Licensee's personal data outside the territory of the European Union.

Period of retention of personal data

The personal data processed shall be retained for the duration of the contractual relationship plus the applicable statutory limitation periods.

Individual rights

The data subjects concerned by the personal data processed may exercise the various rights provided for in the current regulation at any time (right of access to personal data concerning them, right to object to processing, to rectify or delete data, to restrict processing, to the portability of their personal data, to give instructions on how their personal data should be used after their death).

These rights may be exercised by getting in touch with the Company's DPO. The DPO's contact details are provided above.

Complaints may be submitted to the Company's legal representative or directly to the Commission Nationale Informatique et Libertés (CNIL, 3 place de Fontenoy, 75007 Paris).

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

Modification of the applicable conditions

Any changes to the terms and conditions or scope of the Licence may only apply after both Parties have signed an amendment to the Delivery Note or, as the case may be, to the special terms and conditions applicable between the Licensee and the Distributor.

The Editor shall inform the Licensee, by any means at the Editor's discretion and within a reasonable period of time, of the date of issue of any new version of this End User Licence Agreement. Any further use of the Software by the Licensee after this date shall imply agreement by the Licensee to the new version of this End User Licence Agreement. If the Licensee does not agree to the new version of the End User Licence Agreement, it may choose to cease using the Software and terminate the corresponding Licence by informing the Editor immediately and in writing at the following address: invoicing@ige-xao.com.

Nullity

Should one of the conditions in this Licence be deemed to be invalid with respect to a rule of law or a law in force, it shall be deemed not to be written, however, the other stipulations shall retain their force and scope.

Assignment

The Licensee shall refrain from assigning or transferring, in any form whatsoever, in whole or in part, the Licence or all or part of its rights and obligations arising from this End User Licence Agreement to any third party whatsoever, without the prior written consent of the Editor.

The Editor reserves the right to assign or transfer the Licence granted to the Licensee and/or all or part of its rights and obligations arising from this End User Licence Agreement to any of its Affiliates without the need for the Licensee's prior consent.

Waiver

Unless specified otherwise in the terms and conditions of this End User Licence Agreement, in the event of the Editor not demanding enforcement of any one of the provisions herein, the Editor shall in no case be deemed to waive its entitlement to subsequent enforcement of the said provision.

Language

This End User Licence Agreement and the Licence shall be drawn up in the language of the Editor.

If this End User Licence Agreement were to be translated into a language other than French, only the version in French shall be binding on the Parties.

Reference

For the purposes of its internal or external communication, the Editor may cite the Licensee's company name as being part of the legal entities to which the Editor has granted a Software Licence.

GOVERNING LAW AND JURISDICTION

This End User Licence Agreement, as well as any Licence granted to the Licensee, shall be governed by French law.

The Courts of Toulouse (France) shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and settle any dispute arising from this End User Licence Agreement and/or from any Licence granted to the Licensee. However, the Licensee acknowledges that in the event of a dispute or claim relating to the Editor's Intellectual Property Rights, the Editor shall be entitled to refer the dispute or claim to any other competent court. Similarly, the Licensee acknowledges that the jurisdiction assigned to the Toulouse (France) Courts shall not prevent any protective measures or emergency proceedings that the Editor is required to take before any other competent court in order to protect all of its Intellectual Property Rights.

ENTIRETY AND PRIMACY

The Licensee acknowledges it has read the provisions of this End User Licence Agreement and declares that it accepts the terms and conditions thereof. This End User Licence Agreement and the Licence granted under it constitute the entire agreement between the Licensee and the Editor regarding the rights granted to the Licensee with respect to the Software and supersede and cancel all previous written and verbal proposals and commitments made between the parties relating to the same subject matter.

In the event of any discrepancy between the provisions of this End User Licence Agreement and the provisions of any

Last updated: April 2024

Licence, the provisions of this Agreement shall have precedence.

END OF DOCUMENT